Profile

Aspiring web developer with a proven ability to adapt in collaborative environments while focusing on achieving high-quality results. I am enthusiastic about clean code and deploying projects in an organised and efficient manner. I genuinely love learning, the journey never stops! Below you will find projects I've completed that showcase my skills.

Projects

BeeKind Donation App

This is a donation app that allows users to donate to various charities. All data is collected from the Every.org Charity API. With the use of the Stripe API the user is able to enter their credit card details and proceed with the payment. There is an option to subscribe to the newsletter with a valid gmail address and get a notification verifying the subscription process.

Weather App

Weather app using a simple form that allows users to input their location and fetch the weather info. All data for the weather forecast comes from the OpenWeatherMap API. The random images in the background are generated using the unsplash API.
